

A BOLD STAND.

The Tribune is receiving many complimentary letters for the bold stand it is taking against the lottery scheme.—Tribune January 28 1889.

"It seems to be the general sentiment that the Constitutional Amendments, relative to a State Lottery, should be unanimously voted for at the coming election, for the reason that in every town and city of Nevada, thousands of dollars are monthly sent out of the State to enrich lottery speculation in New Orleans, when by all rights the money ought to and could be kept here. Every business man and taxpayer should vote for the proposed amendments and give us a lottery of our own."—Tribune Sept. 6, 1888.

ANOTHER HORROR.

Probable Murder in Ruby Valley
A Man's Throat Cut.

The following dispatch from Halleck was received at this office early this morning:

"Thomas O'Connor, of North Ruby, found in his house with his throat cut. Very bad wound. Is still alive.

Len Wines."

From Wm. H. Cotant, who came down from Halleck this morning, we gathered the following particulars as told to him:

"Last evening after dark one of O'Connor's children, a small boy, went over to James Wilson's house which is only a short distance from O'Connor's, and told Wilson to come over, that his father and mother were in a row. Wilson refused to go stating that he did not wish to interfere. The boy insisted and finally Wilson went with him. On approaching the house they found no evidence that any one was within and going around to the kitchen they entered and struck a light, then passed into another room where they found blood on the floor. They then went into the third room where they found O'Connor on the floor with his throat cut; the wind pipe being nearly or quite severed, but still conscious though unable to speak. The victim had evidently been searching for something as blood was found upon a trunk and other articles within the room.

The sufferer made known by signs that he wanted pen and paper, and after considerable time had been spent in the search of an old blank-book, a pencil was found with which Thomas O'Connor then and there wrote a statement accusing his wife and daughter with the crime, to which statement he was duly sworn by Len Wines, J. P., who happened to be in the neighborhood and was called in for the purpose. Mrs. O'Connor and her daughter were found at Krenkie's, a short distance from their home, but we did not learn that they made any statement as to the affair.

This is substantially the statement as given to Mr. Cotant by James Wilson, and there is no doubt that the matter will be fully investigated. As there is no available medical assistance, it is supposed the victim will not survive his terrible injuries.

Thomas O'Connor has been a resident of Ruby Valley for many years, where he was engaged in farming and blacksmithing. Last Spring he had some trouble with his wife which resulted in a temporary separation. O'Connor came to Elko and worked in the blacksmith shop of N. P. Goubager during the Summer, but about Christmas he returned to his family and has been living there since. Col. Moore stopped there yesterday afternoon and had a talk with Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor on land matters, and the Colonel says so far as he could see the relations between the man and his wife were perfectly amicable. The trouble evidently occurred after he left.—Independent.

—The insurance trust is about to throw a sack of $50,000 or so into the legislature, and this means of course another rise of insurance rates to make the amount good. In this way the people pay for bribing their own representatives. This is an indignity hard to bear.—Truckee Republican.
